One Great Hour of Sharing: Sharing Resources & Changing Lives

Presbyterians have faithfully heeded God's call to serve people seeking to reclaim and restore their lives. Your gift to OGH is a gift of hope.

Your gift allows Presbyterian Disaster Assistance to restore communities around the world affected by natural and human-caused disasters. 25 countries and 28 states have received help from natural and human-caused disasters.

Your generosity helps the Presbyterian Hunger Program work with Presbyterians and other partners to alleviate hunger and eliminate its causes in this country and internationally. 154,731 people who are living in extreme poverty now have increased food security and livelihoods through international and national development work.

Your sharing makes it possible for Self-Development of People to affirm the dignity of all by assisting in the empowerment of economically poor, oppressed, and disadvantaged people. 6,460 people have benefited from economic development opportunities.

The programs supported by OGHs depend on continued and increased support from congregations like ours.

We will be collecting for One Great Hour of Sharing now through Easter. Envelopes can be picked up in the narthex and donations dropped in the offering plate on Sunday or mailed to the church marked for OGHs.

A Thank You note was received from Jim Wilson in appreciation of our prayers and cards from our congregation. Praying does make a difference in people's lives!

The worship committee is looking for congregational members to sign up for the duty of liturgist for the summer months. Please see Francie Becker if you can do this for our worship services.

- Believe God's Love (1 John 4:13-5:5)
- Watch Out for Deceivers! (2 John)

The Lord be with you.

Spring is here and the Easter season is upon us. What does this mean for you? Is it the anticipation of Spring Break by students and teachers? Is it the time to get lawns and gardens ready for new life and growth? Is it time to see if the lawn mower still works? Is it time to get recreational vehicles and boats ready for the re-creation of our winter-wearied souls? Perhaps it is all these and more. As for me, I'm looking forward to getting the kayak out and doing some fishing. However, school work, yard work, cleaning, and house repairs will all have to come first.

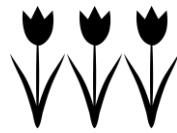

I pray that somewhere in all this springtime basking under the sun we will remember why we celebrate Easter and what this means for us. Easter is the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. The work of Christ with its apex in his death, resurrection, and ascension is the atonement for the sins of humanity. We are forgiven and Christ is the source of the free flowing grace of the Father through the Holy Spirit who unites us to Christ and each other and transforms our lives, freeing us to be more human than we were before.

We have all heard these words, I'm sure, maybe in a slightly different way. In this Easter season we will reflect on what they mean for us. How do we respond to what God has done for us? Is it cheap grace that does not lead us to transformative responses in our lives? Is it quietism that leads us to ignore the means of grace, such as attending worship services, until God shows up? Or, are we led to holy living—a lifetime of effort to conform to Christ's life example and a lifetime of emotional and spiritual misery under the gaze of a frowning God.

“But God proves his love for us in that while we still were sinners Christ died for us (Romans 5:8). In this Easter season may we grow in belief, trust, and faith, not as a human effort, but by living “in” Christ who believes, trusts, and has faith in God the Father on our behalf and in our place. “I have been crucified with Christ; and it is no longer I who live, but it is Christ who lives in me” (Galatians 2:19-20).

May the blessings of the Triune God be with you all.

The old fisherman

Our house was directly across the street from the clinic entrance of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. We lived downstairs and rented the upstairs rooms to out-patients at the clinic.

One summer evening as I was fixing supper, there was a knock at the door. I opened it to see a truly awful looking man. "Why, he's hardly taller than my eight-year-old," I thought as I stared at the stooped, shriveled body. But the appalling thing was his face ... lopsided from swelling, red and raw. Yet his voice was pleasant as he said, "Good evening. I've come to see if you've a room for just one night. I came for a treatment this morning from the eastern shore, and there's no bus 'til morning."

He told me he'd been hunting for a room since noon but with no success. No one seemed to have a room. "I guess it's my face ... I know it looks terrible, but my doctor says with a few more treatments..."

For a moment I hesitated, but his next words convinced me. "I could sleep in this rocking chair on the porch. My bus leaves early in the morning."

I told him we would find him a bed, but to rest on the porch. I went inside and finished getting supper. When we were ready, I asked the old man if he would join us. "No thank you. I have plenty." And he held up a brown paper bag.

When I had finished the dishes, I went out on the porch to talk with him for a few minutes. It didn't take long to see that this old man had an oversized heart crowded into that tiny body. He told me he fished for a living to support his daughter, her five children, and her husband, who was hopelessly crippled from a back injury.

He didn't tell it by way of complaint. In fact, every other sentence was preface with a thanks to God for a blessing. He was grateful that no pain accompanied his disease, which was apparently a form of skin cancer. He thanked God for giving him the strength to keep going.

At bedtime, we put a camp cot in the children's room for him. When I got up in the morning, the bed linens were neatly folded and the little man was out on the porch. He refused breakfast. But just before he left for his bus, haltingly, as if asking a great favor, he said, "Could I please come back and stay the next time I have a treatment? I won't put you out a bit. I can sleep fine in a chair."

He paused a moment and then added, "Your children made me feel at home. Grownups are bothered by my face, but children don't seem to mind."

I told him he was welcome to come again.

On his next trip he arrived a little after seven in the morning. As a gift, he brought a big fish and a quart of the largest oysters I had ever seen. He said he had shucked them that morning before he left so that they'd be nice and fresh. I knew his bus left at 4:00 a.m. and I wondered what time he had to get up in order to do this for us.

During the years he came to stay overnight with us, there was never a time that he did not bring us fish or oysters or vegetables from his garden. Other times we received packages in the mail, always by special delivery ... fish and oysters packed in a box with fresh young spinach or kale ... every leaf carefully washed. Knowing that he must walk three miles to mail these, and knowing how little money he had made the gifts doubly precious.

When I received these little remembrances, I often thought of a comment our next-door neighbor made after he left that first morning. "Did you keep that awful looking man last night? I turned him away! You can lose roomers by putting up such people!"

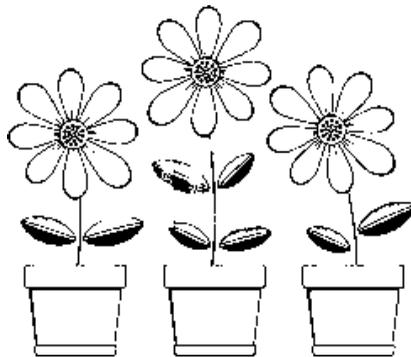

Maybe we did lose roomers once or twice. But oh! If only they could have known him, perhaps their 'illness' would have been easier to bear. I know our family will always be grateful to have known him. From him, we learned what it was to accept the bad without complaint and the good with gratitude to God.

Recently I was visiting a friend who has a greenhouse. As she showed me her flowers, we came to the most beautiful one of all ... a golden chrysanthemum, bursting with blooms. But to my great surprise, it was growing in an old dented, rusty bucket.

I thought to myself, "If this were my plant, I'd put it in the loveliest container I had!" My friend changed my mind. "I ran short of pots," she explained, "and knowing how beautiful this one would be, I thought it wouldn't mind starting out in this old pail. It's just for a little while, until I can put it out in the garden."

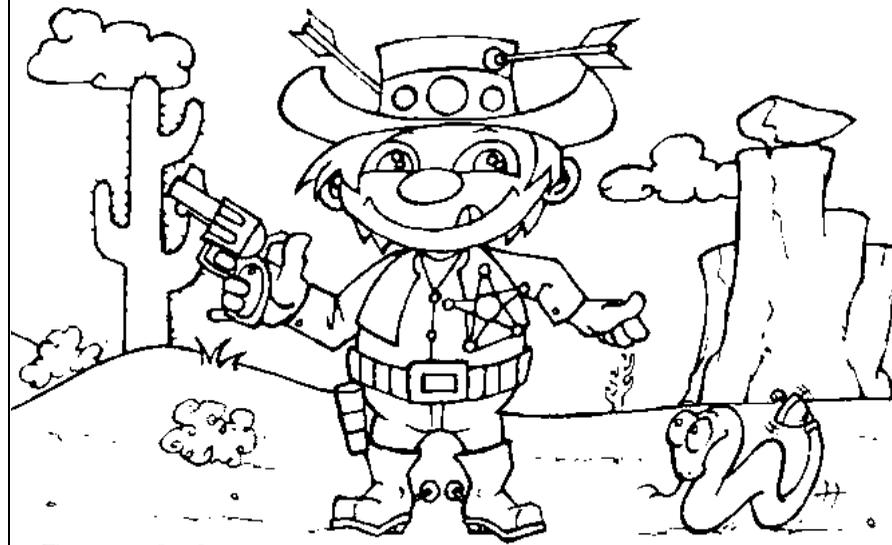

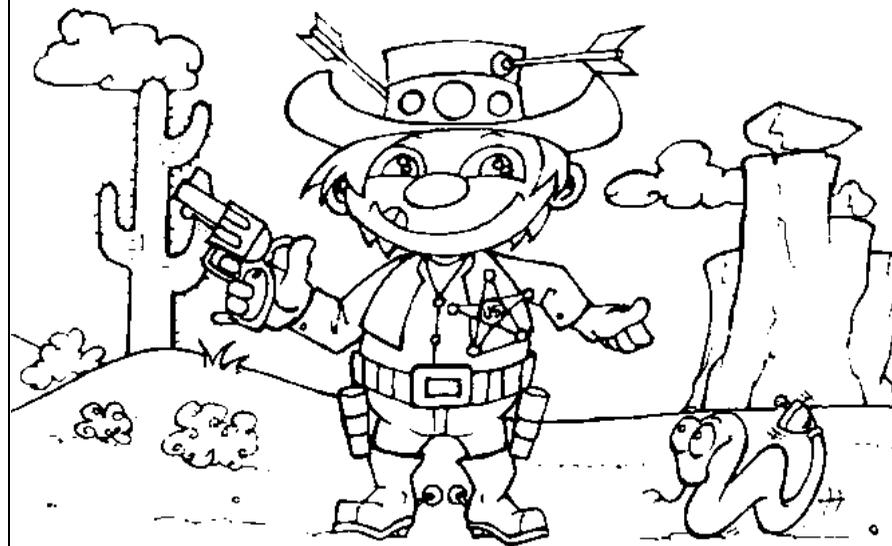

She must have wondered why I laughed so delightedly, but I was imagining such a scene in heaven. "Here's an especially beautiful one," God might have said when he came to the soul of the sweet old fisherman. "He won't mind starting in this small body."

All this happened long ago ... and now, in God's garden, how tall this lovely soul must stand.

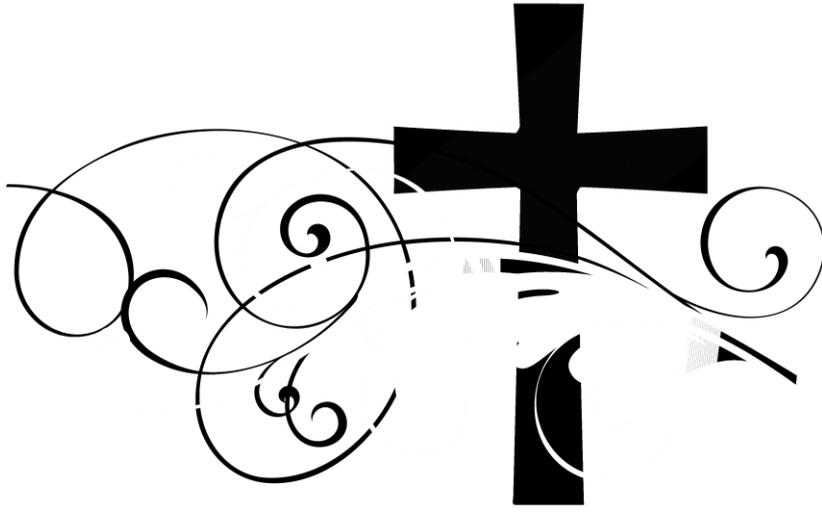

Grow

you're

Can you find 7 differences in these two pictures?

The Greatest Man in history is Jesus. He had no servants, yet they called Him Master. He had no degree, yet they called Him Teacher. He had no medicines, yet they called Him Healer. He had no army, yet kings feared Him. He won no military battles, yet He conquered the world. He committed no crime, yet they crucified Him. He was buried in a tomb, yet He lives today.

Warrior Canine Connection

Pam Ours:
helping others

Warrior Canine Connection is a therapeutic service dog training program that harnesses the healing power of the human-animal bond.

A decade of military conflict has taken a devastating physical and mental toll on hundreds of thousands of Wounded Warriors. The next great battle our nation must face is to bring peace to the hearts and minds of hundreds of thousands of service members who have brought these conflicts home with them.

WCC is supporting that mission by offering a safe, effective, non-pharmaceutical intervention for the invisible wounds of war while helping to provide highly-skilled service dogs for veterans in need. It's the ultimate win-win story.

Puppy Parents raise these service dogs for approximately two years before the dog graduates and is placed with a Veteran. Puppy Parents will be the first to tell you that the time, attention, and love they give to these future service dogs is incredibly rewarding and joyful. Each puppy goes home with their Puppy Parent between the age of 8—12 weeks. To be considered for this important work, you must be willing and able to provide the following support and training for your WCC puppy:

- Provide a stable, safe, consistent and loving environment
- Supervise the young puppy throughout the day
- Teach the puppy manners and basic commands
- Keep the puppy on a leash at all times unless in a securely fenced area
- Closely monitor the puppy's progress and submit monthly reports
- Attend weekly training classes at the Brookeville, MD HQ or the Menlo Park, CA location. From time to time, this will include social outings that build skills and confidence
- Provide the puppy with age-appropriate socialization opportunities
- Ensure that your WCC puppy is the only dog under the age of one in your home
- Agree to return the puppy upon request

If it seems like a major commitment, it is—but it is one of the most rewarding experiences you will ever undertake. Pam Ours is currently training a puppy for the WCC program. She has a yellow lab named Ashley Laine. Ashley Laine is a puppy from "The Gratitude Litter." The Gratitude Litter is a litter of 9 pups. To honor the sacrifices of US soldiers, the puppies of WCC are traditionally named after those who have served.

Pam's puppy is named after 1st Lieutenant Ashley Laine Henderson Huff (USA)

Ashley Laine Henderson Huff went to the University of Georgia on an Army ROTC scholarship. She chose military service after watching the 9/11 terrorist attacks on television while at the Sigma Kappa house, where she was a member. After graduation, Huff was commissioned as a second lieutenant and chose the Military Police Corps. She was assigned to the 549th Military Police Company and was stationed in the restive northern city of Mosul, training the fledgling Iraqi police. Her duties required her to accompany the police, who are often targeted by insurgents, on their patrols.

On September 19, 2006 Huff was on patrol in Mosul with an Iraqi police unit when a suicide car bomber pulled up alongside her Humvee and detonated explosives. Huff was killed, and two other soldiers were injured.

Ashley was an inspiration to women because she was a college student, a sorority girl, and a soldier. She set an example for all girls that you can do anything you want without stereotypes getting in the way. She was a leader that others want to follow, and showed us how to take a stand for what's important and follow through with it. She was noble, courageous, and fearless. Military police units perform some of the most dangerous missions in the military and she performed her job at great personal sacrifice.

WCC provides top-quality veterinary care for program dogs and keeps careful health and veterinary records from the date puppies enter the program through their entire lives. All WCC dogs are spayed or neutered between the ages of 1—2 unless they are being considered for the WCC breeding program.

WCC dogs are born with a mission to help wounded warriors reconnect with life and Puppy Parents foster that mission through their tireless efforts and dedication to the training of the dog in their care. Their tremendous commitment, enthusiasm, and love provide each puppy with the greatest opportunity for success. Their futures are bright. Their opportunities to impact the life of a Veteran are endless.

You can follow the "Tails of Ashley Laine" on Facebook on "The Gratitude Litter" page or the "Warrior Canine Connection" page.

Six Gifts That Don't Cost a Cent To Give

The Gift...

Of Listening...

But you must REALLY listen. No interrupting, no daydreaming, no planning your response. Just listening.

Of Affection...

Be generous with appropriate hugs, kisses, pats on the back and handholds. Let these small actions demonstrate the love you have for family and friends.

Of Laughter...

Funny pictures. Share articles, funny stories, and funny greetings. Your gift will say, "I love to laugh with you".

Of A Written Note...

It can be a simple "Thanks for the help" note or a full sonnet. A brief, handwritten note may be remembered for a lifetime, and may even change a life.

Of A Compliment...

A simple and sincere, "You look great in red," "You did a super job" or "That was a wonderful meal" can make someone's day.

Of A Favor...

Every day, go out of your way to do something kind.

Simplify

Matthew 7:7-11

"Whatever is good and perfect is a gift coming down to us from God our Father" (James 1:17 NLT).

It's a beautiful truth. Every good thing in our lives comes from God—every single thing. Promotions and pancakes. Rain showers and relationships. Songs and sunsets. The astounding blessings God gives, and also the things He does so faithfully that we take for granted.

And since all good things are from the Father's hand, it is also true that our very existence depends on hearts that pump at a God-guided rhythm, lungs that breathe a recipe of air He created, brains that think thoughts through channels He wired. We can no more will our hearts to beat than we can move the moon. And we live, every second, because of this orchestrated ordinariness. Every single day.

That's not to say life is or even should be without adversity or problems. But amid the highs and lows, it is good to remember God's sustaining provision: He commanded rain to fall, guided sunbeams, and designed vegetation to replenish. All of this happens on a planet He holds in infinite space, in perfect position for each of these things to occur. And on this held planet, He endowed talents, granted mental aptitude, and bestowed physical abilities, according to His purposes.

The word from James 1:17 makes this truth very personal: It implies a Giver of these good things. They are not simply of God, mere overflows of His goodness. They're from Him—invited, given, and sent from your Father in heaven to you. And, good Father that He is, His gifts are always thoughtful, meaningful, purposeful. He gave you each provision, each ability, each heartbeat with beautiful intent. When we start to see every good thing for the gracious gift it truly is, we will loosen our grip on life. There is no need to hoard money or belongings. They're all bestowed by a gracious Father who can provide more if we were to give them away. Every ability and talent we have is a God-sent blessing. There's no room for arrogance; we can rest in who the Lord made us to be. And we can enjoy the "little things"—the sunshine, the rain, those pancakes on Saturday morning. Because all things, even the "minor" ones, come from Him. And that means we are deeply loved, down to the most minute detail, with our lives resting on a foundation of God's goodness.

As you unclench your hands on your possessions and talents and increasingly use them to glorify their Giver, you will discover the beauty and freedom that come with simplicity. Pressures will fade; joy will remain. So respond in kind, and let your life be read simply as a thank-You note to the Author of generosity.

Most of the crowd spread their coats on the road ahead of Jesus, and others cut branches from the trees and spread them on the road.
 Matthew 21:8

Then Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve disciples, went to the leading priests and asked, "How much will you pay me to betray Jesus to you?" And they gave him thirty pieces of silver.
 Matthew 26:14-15

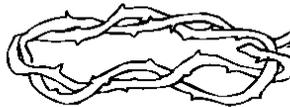

As they were eating, Jesus took a loaf of bread and asked God's blessing on it. Then he broke it in pieces and gave it to the disciples, saying, "Take it and eat it for this is my body."
 Matthew 26:26

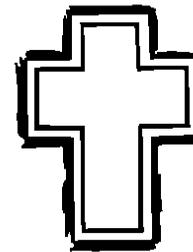

Peter declared, "Even if everyone else deserts you, I never will." "Peter," Jesus replied, "the truth is, this very night, before the rooster crows, you will deny me three times."
 Matthew 26:33-34

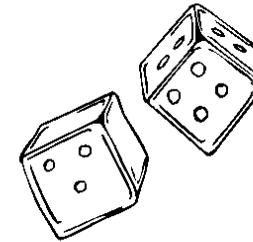

He went on a little farther and fell face down on the ground, praying, "My Father! If it is possible, let this cup of suffering be taken away from me. Yet I want your will, not mine."
 Matthew 26:39

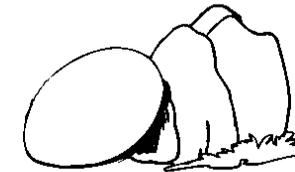

The soldiers made a crown of long, sharp thorns and put it on his head, and they put a royal purple robe on him.
 John 19:2

Then the soldiers nailed him to the cross.
 Mark 15:24a

They gambled for his clothes, throwing dice to decide who would get them.
